

Dean's Message

Welcome to the National Institute of Public Policy (NIPP), which serves as prestigious public policy research institute for the Government of Pakistan and research arm of NSPP.

NIPP is a national platform for policy research, analysis, and informed dialogue in support of evidence-based decision-making across the Federal Government. The Institute is mandated to contribute to the formulation of sound public policies by fostering critical thinking, analytical rigour, and constructive engagement on issues of national importance.

To advance this mandate, NIPP undertakes a wide range of policy-oriented activities, including roundtable discussions, policy debates, seminars, and webinars that bring together policymakers, academics, practitioners, and development partners. These forums provide space for candid exchange of ideas, examination of emerging challenges, and exploration of practical policy options.

NIPP also promotes knowledge dissemination and scholarly engagement through initiatives such as book talks, the Journal of Pakistan Administration, and policy research publications. Flagship platforms including Public Policy Conferences, Policy Pulse, and the NSPP Newsletter further extend the reach of policy insights, research findings, and institutional perspectives to a wider national and international audience.

Through these activities, the Institute aims to strengthen Pakistan's policy ecosystem by bridging research and practice, encouraging innovation in public policy, and supporting a culture of informed governance. NIPP remains committed to upholding objectivity, intellectual independence, and relevance in all its engagements.

I invite government institutions, scholars, practitioners, and stakeholders to actively engage with NIPP's programs and platforms as we collectively work towards effective, inclusive, and forward-looking public policies for national development.
